Published by AGRINFO on 10 Feb 2026

AGRINFO webinar highlights EU Directive on Unfair Trading Practices in the agricultural and food supply chain, and how to give feedback

The EU Unfair Trading Practices Directive: What non-EU agri-food suppliers need to know – webinars 18 February 2026

Update

This webinar, co-produced by AGRINFO, FairTrade Advocacy Office, and Oxfam Belgium, aims to raise awareness about the European Union (EU) Directive 2019/633 on Unfair Trading Practices (UTP). It is specifically for non-EU suppliers of agri-food products who trade with EU buyers or are considering entering the EU market. The webinar will provide an overview of the UTP Directive, present practical examples, and explain how to engage with its revision process.

What is changing?

The Unfair Trading Practices (UTP) Directive aims to achieve a more efficient and fairer food supply chain by protecting agri-food suppliers who sell directly to buyers in the European Union (EU) against UTPs. Non-EU agri-food suppliers are also protected by these rules, which have applied since 2022.

The European Commission is now collecting feedback to inform a revision of the UTP Directive, via a form on its Have Your Say webpage, until 27 February 2026. This input will be taken into account by the Commission when revising the Directive.

Timeline

Stakeholders can provide feedback until 27 February 2026.
