Digital certificates of origin for Brazilian poultry quota

Published by AGRINFO on 21 Feb 2024

Commission Implementing Regulation (EU) 2024/567 with regard to the use of digital proof of origin for products originating from Brazil and the management of tariff quotas

Corrigendum

What is changing and why?

Brazil can now issue digital certificates of origin for poultry exported to the EU. The EU previously required imports under the tariff rate quota to be accompanied by paper certificates. It now allows digital certificates of origin, and has provided a template for those certificates.

Actions

A list of all available quotas can be found in the Annex to Council Regulation (EC) No 32/2000 (click on “Access current version”). It is possible to track how much of an individual quota has been used via the Commission’s Tariff quota consultation webpage.

Timeline

From 23 February 2024, Brazilian poultry imported under the tariff rate quota may be accompanied by certificates of origin in digital format.
