Call for evidence for an evaluation: EU rules of origin [download]

What is changing and why?

The European Commission has launched a comprehensive review of the European Union (EU) rules of origin – the rules that determine where a product comes from and (for example) the import tariffs that apply. The review will assess the effectiveness of existing rules, including potential problems that these rules may create for competent authorities.

Actions

The public consultation on the EU rules of origin closed on 2 December 2025. Responses can be viewed via the European Commission's Have your say webpage.

Timeline

The European Commission is planning to complete its review by the fourth quarter of 2025.
