HPAI: EU suspends fresh poultry meat imports and restricts imports of poultry products from Argentina

Commission Implementing Regulation (EU) 2025/1772 of 1 September 2025 amending Annexes V, XIV and XV to Implementing Regulation (EU) 2021/404 as regards the entries for Argentina and the United States in the lists of third countries, territories or zones thereof authorised for the entry into the Union of consignments of poultry and germinal products of poultry and of fresh meat of poultry, and of meat products from poultry

Update

Due to an outbreak of highly pathogenic avian influenza (HPAI) in the Buenos Aires region, the European Union (EU) has suspended imports of fresh meat and fresh meat products from Argentinian poultry and game birds. Poultry products from Argentina that have undergone a specific risk-mitigating treatment prior to export may still be imported into the EU.

Impacted products

Poultry and game bird meat and products

What is changing?

Exports of fresh poultry and game bird meat and products from Argentina to the EU were suspended on 19 August 2025. The list of authorised countries in Regulation 2021/404 (Annex XIV, Part 1, Section B) has therefore been amended.

For poultry and game bird products, exports can continue if risk-mitigating treatment D is applied to the products (Regulation 2020/692, Annex XXVI).

Risk-mitigating treatment D:

- minimum temperature of 70°C, which must be reached throughout the meat
- water activity (Aw) value not more than 0.93
- pH value not more than 6.0.

Why?

On 25 August 2025, Argentina notified the EU of an outbreak of HPAI in poultry in the province of Buenos Aires (first identified on 19 August).

Timeline

From 3 September 2025, fresh meat from poultry and game birds may not be exported to the EU from Argentina.

Poultry and game bird products certified for export to the EU from Argentina after 18 August 2025 must have undergone specific risk-mitigating treatment.

Recommended Actions

Argentina has no guarantees that would allow for regionalisation (limiting the measures to affected regions within the country), so this suspension of authorisation concerns the whole country. Producers and exporters could engage with competent authorities to support the process of establishing guarantees that allow regionalisation.

Exporters should follow the Terrestrial Animal Health Code of the World Organisation for Animal Health (WOAH), which gives rules for disease prevention, monitoring, and control.

Background

The EU Animal Health Law (Regulation 2016/429) establishes principles and rules for the prevention and control of certain diseases in animals kept by humans (including farm animals, fish, and aquaculture), wild animals, and animal products.

Delegated Regulation 2020/692 supplements Regulation 2016/429 regarding animal health requirements for exports to the EU. Non-EU countries (or part of their territories) wishing to export animal products to the EU must comply with the EU animal health requirements.

These countries or regions must be listed in Regulation 2021/404 for each commodity to be exported to the EU. The list is regularly updated, for example in the event of an outbreak of a notifiable disease, or if there is an improvement in the animal health situation in a country.

Argentina has faced this situation previously. In 2023 the EU suspended poultry and game bird imports from Argentina in response to HPAI, then reauthorised them after appropriate measures were taken.
