Français | Español

Welcome to Issue 50 of AGRINFO UPDATE. This issue reports on the EU's decision to partially delay the implementation of new rules on sustainability reporting and sustainability due diligence. Proposals by the European Commission to simplify further aspects of these rules are still under discussion.

This issue also covers new legislation updating the certain public health requirements for animal products and authorising feed additives, as well as an opportunity to send feedback on a proposal concerning veterinary residues in fish. In addition, there is a proposal to clarify the labelling and production rules for low-alcohol wines. See also the latest report on imported consignments that were not compliant with EU plant health rules.

AGRINFO would like to highlight The Zero Deforestation Learning Series offered by the Team Europe Initiative for Deforestation-free Value Chains. We strongly recommend monitoring the site and registering for upcoming events. The next is Building Digital Public Infrastructure for Deforestation-Free Supply Chains on 20 May.
